

LEGAL GRAPHICS

Our seasoned litigation graphic consultants work directly with trial teams and recommend the most effective demonstratives to bolster the arguments of your case. Pair testimony and arguments with graphics that tell the story how you want it to be told, leaving the jury with a unified, robust image that sticks.

“DEG is my go-to graphics and animation company. Professional, budget conscious, and great to work with. They know how to get things done.”

PATENT ILLUSTRATIONS & ANIMATIONS

Today's intellectual property / patent litigation landscape involves increasingly complex technologies and, since most patent cases are tried by a jury, it is of the utmost importance that lawyers educate non-technical people using clear, simple, accurate illustrations. When Judge and jury understand the mechanics of an invention, chances increase of successfully defending the intellectual property rights of your client.

PHARMACEUTICAL ILLUSTRATIONS

Common litigation involving pharmaceutical, medical device companies, and medical malpractice include: patent infringement disputes, antitrust lawsuits, mass tort, products liability, personal injury, and criminal cases.

CONSTRUCTION ANIMATIONS

When presenting the intricate concepts in a construction case, making sure you move from true images or video of the subject (building, bridge, etc.) to the model, animation or image is key, as any inconsistency will likely be attacked by opposing counsel.

TIMELINES

Timelines are an essential part of litigation because they organize all relevant events of a case into a clear and logical order, facilitating comprehension for a Judge or jury.

Considerations such as what you are trying to convey, key dates or timeframes to highlight, or emphasizing succession of events, will have an impact on how you layout events, how you effectively use the space of your timeline, and how you choose to emphasize your data points for the clearest understanding, to tell your client's story, and to support your arguments.
